The complexity of the HIPAA Privacy Rule and the fact that state agencies may perform both covered and non-covered functions have caused confusion over whether, when, and how public programs may use and exchange identifiable health information.

This one-day workshop will help you understand what HIPAA Privacy REALLY requires. This workshop will:
* Describe the permitted releases of identifiable information;
* Explain any additional requirements needed for those releases;
* Describe the various methods in HIPAA that facilitate data release; and
* Provide tools and guidelines to assist in determining whether or not confidential data can be released.

The workshop will include federal, state, legal, and other HIPAA expert presenters that will:
* Discuss how they have integrated the HIPAA requirements into the disclosure process in their respective agencies;
* Detail the relevant provisions of the privacy rule;
* Provide training on useful tools and guidelines; and
* Lead discussions on how to implement the requirements in existing processes.

Participants will have the opportunity to work through data sharing scenarios and participate in roundtable discussions specific to their area of interest. Participants will also receive tools and guidelines for data release, and a "Certificate of Attendance" from this HIPAA Technical Workshop.

Confirmed speakers and meeting facilitators include:
* Beverly Dozier from the Office of Civil Rights, U.S. DHHS
* Alan Zarate, Privacy Officer, NCHS
* Joy Pritts, Health Privacy Project, Georgetown University
* Vicki Hohner, Fox Systems
* Walter Suarez, Midwest Center for HIPAA Education and Public Health Data Standards Consortium
* Denise Love, Executive Director, NAHDO
